

SOFTWARE CHANGE & CONFIGURATION MANAGEMENT

Collaboration, Control, and Consistency through Streamlined Change, Release, and Build Management

The software development lifecycle today is more complex than ever. A geographically spread development network with different tools and platforms make change control a cumbersome and costly process. This change control is further intensified by continuous requirement changes driven by the customer. These could be new patches, feature development, module enhancement, etc.

Software development organizations need to perceive this change control as an opportunity to build a competitive advantage and optimize resources through a unified change control solution that ensures all the developers are working on the same code and their builds and releases are being comprehensively managed through a single user interface. However, this consolidated workspace presents challenges of its own kind, in terms of code security and information pilferage.

ZenSOFT enables organizations in streamlining change, release, and build management process by architecting, designing, implementing, and maintaining suitable SCM solutions.

- Eliminate code redundancy and software mismanagement through a consolidated change management
- Protection of IP, key assets and prevent code pilferage
- Reduce build and release time through prevention of repeat testing and quality assurance
- Continuous enhancement of productivity through collaboration built on governance

ENGAGEMENT MODEL

- Implementing collaborative software development environment
- Competent and certified resources
- ZenSOFT's own utilities for easy migration from different version control tools
- Automated change management process
